Several years have passed since your group's last adventure. Rome has welcomed all of you back, and life goes on peacefully within her walls. Each of you has taken a different path, but every now and then you manage to get together for a drink and recall the good old days. The amber color of the beer, sipped as you bask in front of a large fireplace, seems to come alive as the irregular glass of your mug reflects the light of the flames. This orange dance mesmerizes you, taking you back in time. But here in the present—the inn door bursts open as a group of young men rush into the hall. Their voices overlap, agitated and eager to be the first to spread the news of the day: the Holy Roman Empire is marching to invade the Papal States. From outside, you hear loud voices; people are out in the streets discussing the news. You make your way to the notice board where a herald is posting a proclamation calling for "volunteers" from the population of Rome. Someone in the crowd recognizes you and, knowing of your deeds, cries out to you, hoping to convince you to respond to the call. The herald approaches you and says, "If you're really interested, report to this address tomorrow, and you will receive all the information you need." The events of the following days are turbulent and accompanied by growing fear amongst the Roman population. The army, composed of Landsknechts and other mercenaries, is advancing every day. No one seems able to stop it; indeed, many duchies and cities have provided support to the invader for the sole purpose of not attracting his wrath. Now, by order of Monsignor Ennio Filonardi, you and your group must leave the Eternal City to join Giovanni dalle Bande Nere, son of Giovanni de Medici and Caterina Sforza, the Lioness of Forlì.

You turn your homes upside down in search of equipment from your old adventures, but unfortunately many of your belongings now too worn out, while you got rid of others long ago. You decide to stop by the market to get what you need before setting off for Mantua, using the money you received from the prelate as an advance on your salary.

How to use this expansion

Under Siege adds a new campaign that is best played after completing the Core Game and the first Nova Aetas Renaissance expansion: Vesuvius. You can continue playing with the Heroes you played with in the previous campaign, or, if you prefer, you can create new Heroes to play with in this expansion's campaign (see the Skip the Past section).

To play the Under Siege Campaign, in addition to the material contained in this expansion, you will need many components from the core game. These will be indicated within the Mission Cards and the paragraphs of the Plotbook, as usual.

In the sections of this Rulebook, you will find all the new rules and components introduced by this expansion.

Setup for the Under Siege Campaign

The Under Siege Campaign takes place many years after the events of The League of Cambrai (the Core Game Campaign), and those narrated in Vesuvius. During the time since your last adventure, your heroes have hung up their swords and settled down to the quieter life in Rome.
Now that they have been called back into action, unfortunately they discover that much of their equipment has been lost or worn out. To depict this setback, please go through the following steps before beginning the Under Siege Campaign:

- Delete all reagents noted on the Campaign Sheet used for your previous campaign.
- Each Hero begins the Under Siege Campaign with only their Bond Equipment (if they have any) and one other piece of equipment of their choice from those noted on the Campaign Sheet. (This includes any gained during previous campaigns). Please consider what you might want to do with any Basic Class Equipment, as it cannot be crafted again (since it doesn't have a Formulae Card).
- All Equipment noted on the Campaign Sheet that has not been selected by any Hero must be discarded. All Equipment crafted using Formulas is returned to the Formulae deck and can be crafted again by visiting the Artisan and spending the required Reagents.
- Heroes discard all Injury Cards and all Achievements in their possession (if they have any).
- The party receives 30 Florins that can be used to purchase Reagents or Equipment from the Artisan during a Rest Phase before Mission: US 0.1 The Mincio runs Red.

Skip the Past

If you wish, you can launch a new campaign starting with the Under Siege Expansion, without playing (or replaying) the League of Cambrai Campaign from the core Nova Aetas Renaissance game or the Vesuvius Expansion. If you choose to do this, you will create new Heroes from scratch.

If you wish to follow this route, please follow these steps:
Each Hero can spend up to 13 Experience Points.
You may spend these to acquire Skills and an Advanced Class, always taking into account all limitations on character development. These include prerequisites and a requirement to choose at least 3 Basic Skills before you can choose your character's Advanced Class (see the "Campaign" chapter of the Core Game Rulebook).

Equipment follows these rules:

- If your Hero spends to select an Advanced Class, they, automatically acquire the Bond Equipment for that Class.
- Discuss as a group and choose up to two Heroes who have upgraded to an Advanced Class. They can read the final Destiny card associated with their Advanced Class and gain the Equipment Card associated with it. These two Heroes may also read all the previous Destiny cards and their associated paragraphs to learn their backstory.
- Other Heroes may read the first of their Destiny cards associated with their chosen Advanced Class. To progress, they must fulfil its objective as normal during the Campaign Missions. These Heroes may also read all the previous Destiny cards and their corresponding paragraphs.
- Each Hero begins the Under Siege Campaign with only their Bond Equipment (if they have any), plus one other piece of equipment of their choice from their Basic Class/ Advanced Class, Rewards, or any equipment obtained through Destiny Cards.
- The party receives 30 Florins that can be used to purchase Reagents or Equipment from the Artisan during a Rest Phase before Mission: US 0.1 The Mincio runs Red.

New Rules

New Hero: Brynhildr

Hailing from the frozen regions of Northern Europe, Brynhildr is a mystical warrior who draws her strength and abilities from ancient Norse traditions. She is a member of the mysterious "Sisterhood of the Spear," an all-female order dedicated to the art of spear fighting, who strive to pass on the techniques of this unique weapon to future generations. What could she possibly be doing in Italy, so far from home?

Brynhildr is a new Hero who can be used in any Nova Aetas Renaissance campaign.
Brynhildr can also be used as a Companion, using the corresponding card and following the normal rules of the Nova Aetas Renaissance core game.

Glory Cards

These cards represent the powers granted to Brynhildr by her connection to the Nordic traditions of the Sisterhood of the Spear. They show the following information:

- A Card name
- B Cost in ϟ Glory Points to activate the Effect
- C Glory Card Effect

During the setup for each Mission, the player controlling Brynhildr must perform the following steps:

- Shuffle the 8 Glory Cards and place them next to their Hero Sheet.
- Reveal the first Glory Card from the deck and place it face up on top of the deck so that its Effect is visible.

The Glory Card revealed on top of the deck is the Active Glory Card.
During her Activation, Brynhildr can spend her ϟ Glory Points at any time to activate the Effect of the Active Glory Card. When she does this, she performs all the following steps, in order:

- Move the cube on the ϟ Glory Points track to the left by a number of spaces equal to the number of Points spent.
- Resolve the Effect of the Active Glory Card.
- Place it face down at the bottom of the deck.
- Turn the top card of the deck face up and place it on top of it so that its Effect is visible. This is the new Active Glory Card.

If Brynhildr uses the Effect of her Active Glory Card thanks to a Skill or Equipment instead of by spending ϟ Glory Points, she skips the first step above but must still perform all the others.

Brynhildr can use Glory Cards with both her Basic Class and either of her two Advanced Classes, as well as when she is used as a Companion.

Glory Points

Some of Brynhildr's Equipment and Skills allow her to gain a specific type of ϟ Class Points called ϟ Glory Points.
You can keep track of them using the ϟ Glory Points Track on Brynhildr's Hero Sheet.
During her Activation, Brynhildr can spend one or more ϟ Glory Points to use the Effect of her Active Glory Card.
Spending ϟ Glory Points to use the Effect of the Active Glory Card is not an Action, doesn't cost any ⧗ , and can be performed at any time during Brynhildr's Activation.
Brynhildr can use multiple Glory Cards during her activation, as long as she has enough ϟ Glory Points to pay their cost.

Brynhildr can use ϟ Glory Points to activate Glory Cards even when used as a Companion. Use the 3 slots at the bottom of the Companion Card and up to 3 cubes to keep track of Brynhildr's ϟ Glory Points. When she is played as a Companion, she can accumulate a maximum of 3 ϟ.

New Tokens

Bivouac Token: The Bivouac Token is required to access the Cooking Phase during the Rest Phase. The Bivouac Token can be gained in two ways: as a reward for a Campaign Mission, or by spending 3 Elementum Reagents: Wood.

Serum Token: This Token represents a Mission item from the Under Siege Campaign.

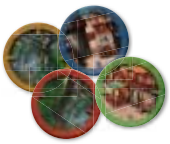

Marc Token: This special 40 mm Token is used in place of a Model for the character Marc, who appears in a Mission of the Under Siege Campaign.

Jean Token: This special 40 mm is used in place of a Model for the character Jean, who appears in a Mission of the Under Siege Campaign.

Condottiero Token: This Token is used with the "Condottiero's Manual" Equipment card. See that card for details of how to use this Token.

4 Viewpoint Tokens: Viewpoints are Tokens linked to Mission's Actions that allow you to reveal the corresponding Landscape Card.

New Cards

Landscape Mission Cards

These cards work similarly to the Location Cards in the core game, but are tied to a specific Tile. When you reveal a Landscape Card, place it next to the indicated Tile. A Landscape Card is a window into the scenery your Hero is looking out over. Its wealth of detail provides new interactions with the Scenic Elements on its associated Tile. Unlike Location Cards, Heroes can't be placed on Landscape Cards. You can interact with a Landscape Card from anywhere on the Tile connected to the card. Because an interaction with a Landscape Card represents the Hero simply looking around their surroundings, it normally costs 0 ⧗. Further explanations in the Plotbook will indicate how you can interact with the Scenic Elements depicted.

Landscape Cards can provide useful clues about the Mission you are currently playing, so we recommend paying close attention to the details of their illustrations.

Formulae Cards and Reward Cards

This Expansion introduces new Equipment Cards. You can also use these cards in the League of Cambrai Campaign from the core game and the Vesuvius Campaign. The 10 new Formulae Equipment Cards are identical to those from the core game and can be crafted by visiting the Artisan's Workshop as usual.
The two Reward Cards can only be acquired during Under Siege Campaign Missions.

Cibus Reagent Cards

Enemies in the Under Siege Expansion will provide you with a new type of Reagent: Cibus. Draw the number of Cibus Reagent cards indicated on the Enemy Card when you defeat them, just as you would with other Reagents. Add the Cibus cards you draw to your Loot.

Scenic Element Cards

The Under Siege Expansion introduces new Scenic Element Cards, used in the setup of Exploration Missions. Scenic Element Cards are drawn randomly during the setup of the Battlefield and describe the placement and rules of the Scenic Elements included in this expansion (Passetto/Aqueduct and Falconet). A detailed explanation of all the rules for Scenic Element Cards can be found in the Nova Aetas Renaissance Stretch Goal Rulebook.

Achievement Cards

During the Under Siege Campaign, your group of Heroes will have the opportunity to gain new Achievement Cards, some of which will introduce Special Actions that can be performed during the game. Cards with the asymbol can only be assigned to specific Models as indicated by the Mission rules. This type of Conquest Card cannot be used by Heroes until a Mission's Action allows it.

New Scenic Elements

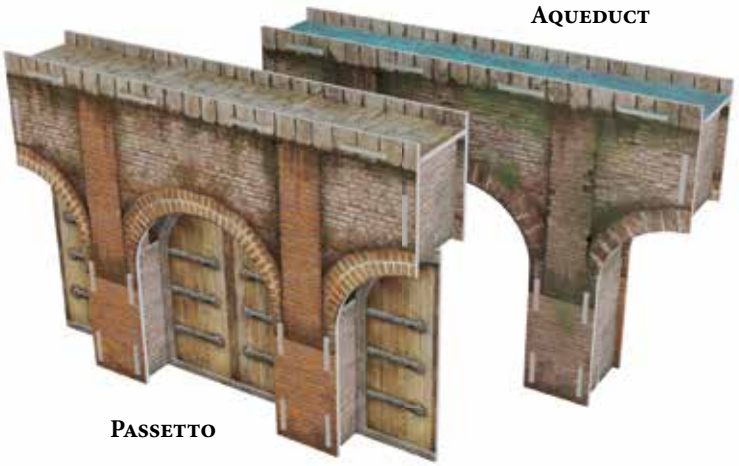

Passetto/Aqueduct

This 3D Scenic Element represents the Passetto di Borgo di Castel Sant'Angelo, the protected passageway connecting the Bastione San Marco di Castel Sant'Angelo to the Vatican's Apostolic Palace.

This Scenic Element is modular, with gates that can either be inserted or removed, depending on the Mission you're playing. If you flip each piece used to construct the Passetto round to its other side, you can assemble a generic Aqueduct. Aqueduct. Both of these Scenic Elements follow these Special Rules:

- Blocking
- Towering
- Bulky

No game effect (Skill, Equipment, or Trait) of Enemies, Heroes, or Allies can allow a Model to be placed on a Passetto/Aqueduct Square. Furthermore, no game effect can allow movement through the Passetto/Aqueduct if it is placed on the Battlefield with the Gates Closed. In this scenario, there will be a Mission rule that will cause Heroes or Enemies to interact with the Scenic Element.

Aqueduct

Passetto

Falconet

This Scenic Element represents an imperial war machine loaded with gunpowder. The falconet follows these Special Rules:

- Bulky
- Interactive

If you encounter this Scenic Element during a Campaign Mission, simply follow the Mission rules to interact with it or defend yourself from its deadly attacks.

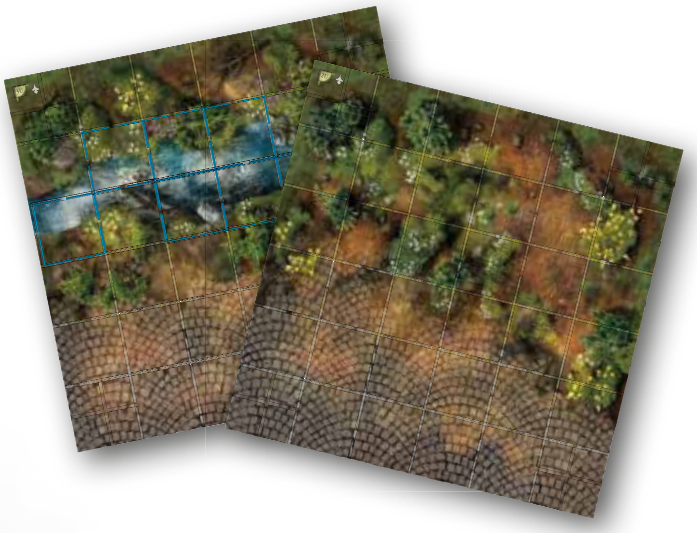

The Falconet is also a Scenic Element that you may come across during Exploration Missions. If this happens, you will find everything you need to know in order to interact with it during your Mission on the Falconet and Falconet Failure Cards.

New Tiles: Border/Stream

Two new Tiles introduced in this Expansion show the Border (1U and 2U) on one side and the Stream (3U and 4U) on the other.

The Border Tiles represent the limits of a settlement and have no Special Rules. The Stream Tiles show some Squares with a blue border. These Squares follow the Water Tile Rules described in the Nova Aetas Renaissance Rulebook.

Campaign Rules

New Skills

Persistence

If a Hero doesn't take 💔 from the initial attack of an Enemy with this Skill, that Enemy will carry out a second attack. The Hero must immediately perform another Defense Test to defend themselves from this follow-up attack. This Skill triggers only once per Attack.

Counteroffensive

Enemies with this Skill can hit back if they manage to avoid 💔. If they avoid all 💔 from the attack of an adjacent Hero, that Hero takes 1 Unblockable 💔.

New Rule

Critical

If this 🟤 Attack inflicts at least 3💔, the Effect described after the colon is applied, and the Hero who performed the Attack gains +1🌀.
This Effect replaces the Critical X Trait from the core game.

Getting Around Rome

Travel and Rest Phases

The Under Siege Campaign is mainly set in Rome, so there is no Travel Phase. You will be reminded of this at the end of each Mission.
Each Mission in the core game lists, under its title, the name of the place where you will rest and the type of location where this phase will take place, i.e. whether it is a village or a city.
In Under Siege, instead of the name of the place, you can find the name of the district of Rome where you will carry out the Rest Phase and a list of icons related to the stores in that district. These will be the only activities available during the next Rest Phase.

Cooking

During the siege of Rome, the city's population didn't get many supplies, as almost all roads into and out of the city were controlled by Georg von Frundsberg's army. The citizens of Rome therefore had to live by their wits, trying to survive as best they could and feeding themselves with whatever they could find.
You too will be forced to put old lessons into practice or learn new skills to resist that most deadly of enemies—hunger.

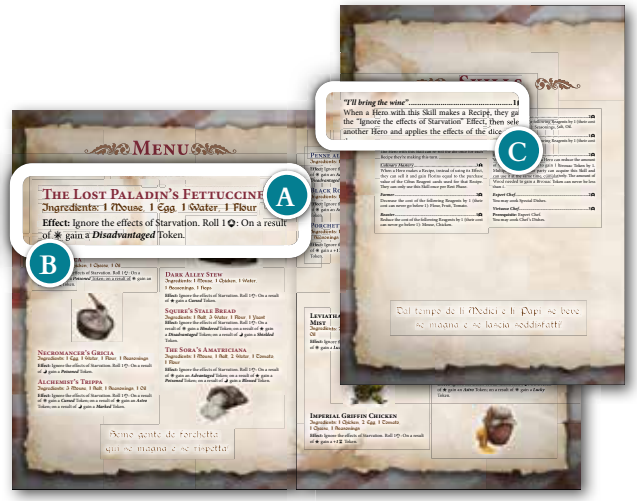

Recipes and Cooking

In Under Siege you will have at your disposal the Menu, which is a sheet from which you can access a series of recipes. Making these will allow you to avoid Starvation (see next section).
All possible Recipes are listed in the Menu and are divided into 3 categories: Camp Kitchen Dishes, Special Dishes, and Chef's Dishes.

Camp Kitchen Dishes are always available to all Heroes, and allow them to avoid the penalty inflicted by the Starvation rule. Special Dishes and Chef's Dishes are only available to Heroes who have acquired specific Cooking Skills. In addition to allowing Heroes to avoid Starvation, Special and Chef's Dishes also provide additional Effects. These can be utilized in the Mission that the Heroes embark on after the Rest Phase during which they make the Recipe.

Each Recipe lists a set of Cibus Reagents (Ingredients) that must be used in order to make it A, as well as the Effect gained by making the Recipe B. In addition, the listed Ingredients (e.g., Meat, Fish, Bread, etc.) may also function as keywords required for interactions with certain Cooking Skills C.

You may make a Recipe at the end of any Rest Phase, even if all Heroes have already been placed on a Store.

Place the Bivouac Token on the menu as a reminder to use the recipes at the end of the Rest Phase.

To make Recipes during a Rest Phase, you must first acquire the Bivouac Token. If you don't have the Token, no Hero can make Recipes. You can gain the Token by spending 3 Elementum Reagents: Wood, removing them from the Campaign Sheet. It is also possible to gain the Token at the end of a Mission, in which case the Plotbook will indicate that "The party gains the Bivouac Token." The token can then be used in the next Rest Phase. Place the Bivouac Token on the Menu when you gain it, as a reminder. Once you have the Bivouac Token, each Hero can make as many Recipes as they have Ingredients for at the end of the current Rest Phase.

Remember: Elementum Reagent: Wood can be purchased at the Market during the Rest Phase.

Follow these rules when making a Recipe:

- When you use an Ingredient to create a Recipe, remove it from the Campaign Sheet.
- Each Hero who wishes to cook during a Rest Phase selects 1 or more Recipes that they are able to cook from the Menu.
- Each Hero can use their Cooking Skills and apply the Effects of the Recipes they cook only on themselves.
- A Hero can make multiple Recipes to gain different bonuses. Fully resolve the Effects of 1 Recipe before making the next.
- Each Recipe can be cooked by multiple Heroes, as long as the required Ingredients are available.

Recipe Effects

Recipes have an Effect that must be applied immediately after removing the required Ingredients from the Campaign Sheet. The Effects of a Recipe follow these rules:
Automatic Effect: Must be applied immediately after use.
Triggered Effect: Effects that will only come into play if you obtain specific symbols. The Effect can be Positive or Negative. Rolling the dice for these Effects is mandatory.
The bonuses provided by a Recipe's Effect (including not suffering Starvation) apply only to the Mission following the Rest Phase in which the Recipe is made.

Starvation

If a Hero fails to gain the "Ignore Starvation" bonus during a Rest Phase, they suffer the effects of Starvation.
A Hero suffering from Starvation must roll a and apply the following:

- No Symbol: -1 penalty on the Characteristic.
- Star: -1 penalty on the Characteristic.
- Sun: -1 penalty on the Characteristic.
- Moon: -1 penalty on the Characteristic.

This Starvation penalty remains in effect until the start of the next Rest Phase.

Cooking Skills

Under Siege introduces a new type of Skill that all Heroes can learn during this campaign. All available Cooking Skills are listed in the Menu.

During the Rest Phase, each Hero who has available may spend them to purchase Cooking Skills, along with the Skills available on their Skill Sheets.

On the new Under Siege Campaign Sheet each Hero has 3 new slots in the Skills section to mark the Cooking Skills they have learned. Each Hero can learn a maximum of 3 Cooking Skills. All learned Cooking Skills can be used during any Rest Phase, without needing to be equipped like Class Skills.

Each Cooking Skill is individual and can't be used to cook for others, unless otherwise specified.
